

EMS & Mass-Casualty Incident Management

A Workshop Presented by

A.J. Heightman, MPA, EMT-P, Editor-in-Chief of JEMS (Journal of Emergency Medical Services)

June 25-26, 2016

Bessie Myers Auditorium
Mary Greeley Medical Center, Ames, Iowa
(second day involves outdoor practical experiences, nearby).

This is a phenomenal opportunity to attend and participate in this practical comprehensive seminar that will look at the process and procedures for successful management of mass-casualty incidents.

A.J. Heightman (40+ years of service experience as well as extensive networking with those involved in many real disasters) will focus on the interaction that must occur during an MCI involving EMS, fire, police, aeromedical, hospital, emergency management and communications center personnel.

The workshop is designed to help participants facilitate rapid scene assessments, concise radio reports, triage, treatment and transportation. More importantly, this program offers procedures and insights that will assist personnel in gaining control of incident scenes of any size.

More information and the schedule, as well as online registration information are available at:
